

NEWTOWN

BULLETIN BOARD

Blood pressure screening
The Ashlar of Newtown Nursing Department will sponsor a free blood pressure screening April 18 from 10 a.m. to noon in the Lockwood Lodge Wellness Center at Ashlar of Newtown, 139 Toddy Hill Road in Newtown. For more information, call (203) 426-5847.

CALENDAR

Today
Business Network International, 7 a.m., Newtown United Methodist Church. (203) 270-0726.
English and Early American Country Dance, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., Newtown Congregational Church House, Main Street.

Tomorrow
Women's Group, 7:30 p.m., The Home of the Urgan's, 23 Split Rock Road. (203) 270-8882.

Monday
Take Off Pounds Sensibly, 7 to 8 p.m., 31 Main St. Weigh-in 6 to 6:45 p.m. 426-6224.

Wednesday
Newtown Lions Club, 7 p.m., The Fireside Inn at Newtown.
Housatonic Valley Antique Automobile Club, 7:30 p.m., Hawkeyville Fire House, Route 25. 743-2642.

NOTEWORTHY

Andrew Taylor of Newtown, a junior at the Science Horizons School in Danbury, was one of two Connecticut students awarded a $20,000 scholarship to Quinnipiac University at the Connecticut Science Fair for his project, "Comparing Salt Marshes on the Long Island Sound Using Health Indices in Fundulus heteroclitus." The Connecticut Science Fair was held at Quinnipiac University, Hamden, in March. If he's admitted and enrolls at Quinnipiac, Taylor will receive a $5,000 annual scholarship toward tuition for four years to attend as an undergraduate. Taylor's project has received previous science

Passover celebration

St. Rose of Lima Church invited members of Congregation Adath Israel to join in their Passover Seder/Last Supper dinner on March 28 at the church. Mark Rebb, right, the synagogue's rabbi and chairman of the ritual committee, officiated the service. Above, Rebb demonstrates how to hold a Kiddush Cup. With him are Betty Warner, left, who read the four questions, and Gloria Ricco. Missing from the photo is Lisa Chaloux, who sang Ma-Nish-ta-naw, which is the four questions in Hebrew.

awards such as the Pfizer Life Sciences 5th Place Life Sciences Award, the First Place Project Oceanology Individual award and the Excellence in Environmental Conservation Studies Award from Goodwin-Niering Center.

Newtown resident Sheila O'Connor, a senior clarinetist at The College of Wooster, Wooster, Ohio, has been selected to receive a music achievement award from the women's committee of the Wooster Symphony Orchestra. She was one of three winners chosen by the symphony's music director and conductor Jeffrey Lindberg on the basis of merit, achievement of musical standards, commitment to the orchestra and community involvement.

Sarah M. Hemingway of Newtown made the dean's list for the fall semester at the University of Connecticut, Storrs.

Newtown residents Anthony L. Altieri, Stephen John Ambrogio, Mary Frances Anders, Lauren Elizabeth Blomberg, James Anthony Deliasala, Jacqueline Colette Ercole, William James Fields, Julie Lynne Iwanicki, Ashley Marie Klabonski, Brendan K. Krueger, Kristen Renee Luttati, Julia Christine Lysaght, Benjamin Kevin March, Kathleen Halley Mayer, Robert M. Milot, Bethany Gorham Ober, Krishna Jaydev Patel, Margaret Lucy Randall, Andrea Raynor, Melissa A. Rushefski, Ronald Peter Shimko, Mary Caitlin S. Sochacki, Kristen Marie Troy and Louisa Jean Yonc were named to the dean's list for the fall semester at the University of Connecticut, Storrs.